DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 47-49, 51, 54, 55, 57 and 58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Reum (US 5,181,750).

Reum discloses in Figure 4 and column 5, lines 19-24 a monolithic catheter hub comprising a hub portion (63) and a strain portion (65) molded as a single piece, a lumen configured to receive a hollow catheter (12), the strain portion having grooves extending helically/orthogonally to the axis, and the hub further comprising wings (52b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 50 and 56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reum as modified by Folkman (US 5,333,650)

Reum discloses the claimed invention except for the hub being molded to include a threaded connector section and the hub being molded onto the proximal end of the tube. Folkman discloses in Figure 1 it is known to use hub being molded to include a threaded connector section which is molded onto the proximal end of the tube. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system as taught by Reum with the teaching of Folkman since such a modification would permit for securer attachment of the hub to a variety of devices via the threaded section while providing a cheap and secure connection between the hub and tube.

3. Claims 52 and 53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Reum.

Reum discloses the claimed invention except for teaching the hub being molded of nylon or polyether block amide polymer. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Reum by molding the hub out of any suitable material, including nylon or polyether block amide polymer, since it is notoriously well known to substitute various types of materials in the production of hub-type devices.

Response to Arguments
